

I'm sure you've heard lots of stories about superheroes.

They are really strong and have special superpowers!

But these aren't the superheroes who help us beat Coco the superzero...

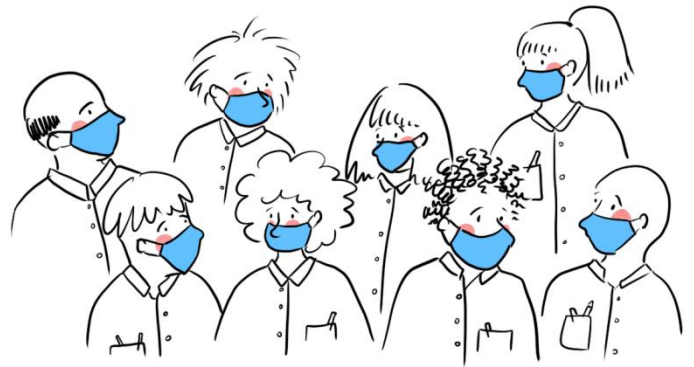

In fact, there are superheroes all around us who aren't in the storybooks. These heroes treat the people who Coco made poorly:

Doctors.

Nurses, Nursing Assistants...

...and all of the people working by their sides, giving them medicine and everything they need.

There are also scientists all over the world looking for the best vaccine to fight Coco.

And that's not all! There are people still working to provide us with:

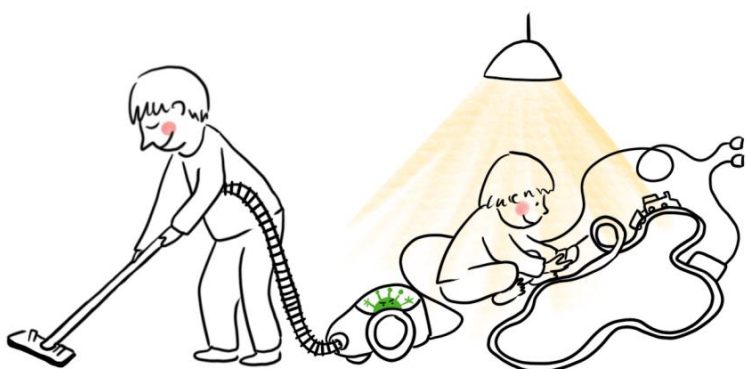

water...

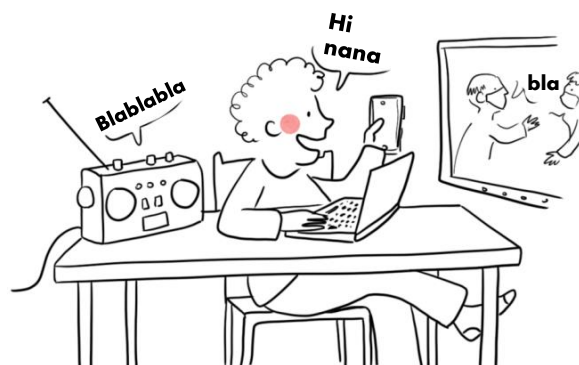

food...

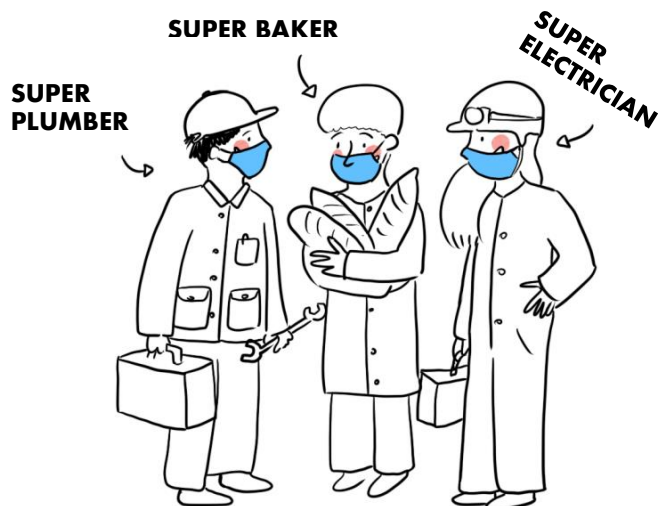

electricity...

...internet, radio, television, phones...

All these people are incredible Coco-lockdown superheroes, because without them, a lot of things would be missing from our lives.

Your parents will be able to give you even more examples of anti-Coco superheroes. Perhaps now you could send me a picture of your favourite anti-Coco superhero!
